GOVERNOR AL SMITH FOR PRESIDENT

ASSAILS FEDERAL BOASTS OF ECONOMICAL GOVERNMENT

Tells Thousands What He Would Do Were He In Charge of the Government Helm—Interpreted for 1928 —The Democratic Hope Greeted By a Number of Leading National Politicians.

From a rough platform in the Beverly Hills Forest preserves, Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, as guest of honor at a picnic of Cook county Democrats Sunday outlined to several thousand persons what Democratic leaders in Chicago considered to be the principles upon which he may wage a fight for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

Thousands who went to the picnic expecting a fiery attack upon prohibition, or the Ku Klux Klan, with an outspoken declaration of White House ambitions, however, were disappointed. No reference was made by the governor to any of these subjects, and any discussion of presidential aspirations was confined to private conferences with Democratic leaders from several states of the middle west who came to Chicago to meet him.

Governor Smith, however, outlined a tentative program of reform in Washington that he said would save $200,000,000 a year and bring governmental affairs in line with the progress in science and business "in this airplane age."

Mayor William E. Dever, of Chicago, introduced the New York executive before a throng, cheering wildly for "Al," as "a man who stands forth in the public opinion of the nation not only as a great Democratic leader, but as one who is generally regarded as the most popular, the most competent and the most brilliant party leader in the nation."

Dressed in formal black and wearing a flower in his buttonhole, Governor Smith lost no time in launching into his message after the demonstration had subsided.

"There is a propaganda now being circulated," he said, "that the heavy burden of taxation is from local sources and that the federal government is effecting a wonderful economy. We ought to speak the facts. The reductions in national expenditures are largely due to the changing of the country from a war to a peace basis. In the states and cities an attempt is being made to catch up with public improvements delayed by the war. During the war the government requested the states not to use men and materials required for war. There was a lull in improvements.

"It is not entirely fair to the cities and states to seek to put the blame there. I am about to return to New York to begin an active campaign for the elimination of dangerous railroad crossings. We have more than 4,000 such crossings and under the present rate of progress it would take 250 years to make them safe. We are proposing a $300,000,000 bond issue for this purpose.

"In the last 20 years we have passed thru a period of the greatest material achievements the world has ever known. One thing has stood still and that is the processes of government, particularly in the states and at Washington.

"We have proposed a remedy in the consolidation of all the standard activities of government to take off the invisible hand that has guided it in our state. It was tried in Illinois, with the Lowden consolidation by statute, but lacking the power of constitutional backing, his successors in office promptly sought to undo the whole thing.

"We propose to reduce 183 departments to 21 constitutional departments and to compel all new activities to come into these departments.

"Senator Curtis has suggested, I read in an editorial, that the scattered activities at Washington, if consolidated, would effect an annual saving of about $200,000,000. In the fall of 1921, the then secretary of the postal department held this system up to ridicule, showing that road activities are in five departments, wild life in six departments. We are on a fair way to solution of some of these problems to the end that the government keep harmonious step with business, science, medicine and the other great developments of the last twenty years."

Knitted Frocks Follow Smart Tailored Ideas

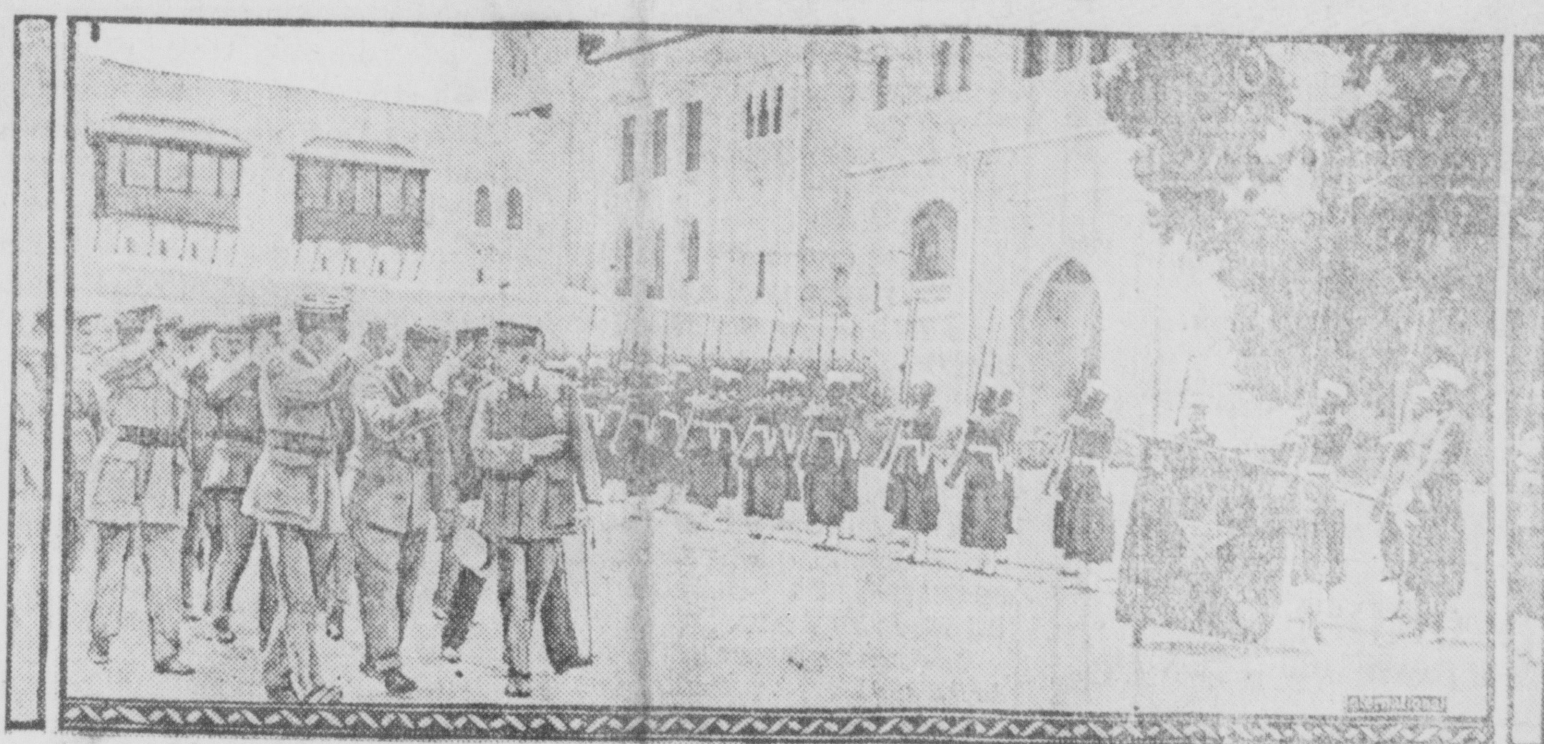

With winter apparel definitely traveling in the direction of tailored styles, knitted frocks have taken up the same trail, with distinguished success. Here is one of them, with convertible scarf collar, long sleeves and simulated plaits, which challenges comparisons, is ideal for general wear and a joy to the tourist or sportswoman.

SURVIVORS OF SUBMARINE TELL STORY

Men Were Asleep When the Crash Came and Their Escape Was Miraculous.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 28 (UP).—Arriving here late Saturday on the steamer, City of Rome, the three survivors of the S-51 disaster told how they escaped from the crippled submarine after she had been struck by the steamship.

All three men, Alfred Geier, of New Bedford, Dewey Kile, of Peoria, Mississippi, and Michael S. Lira, of St. Louis, agreed that they survived only thru a miracle.

They said they were asleep in their hammocks below when the crash occurred. Lira said he was thrown from his hammock and then blindly made his way up the ladder, preceded by Commander Dobson. He knew nothing further, he said until he was taken from the water.

Geier and Kile said the first they remembered was when they found themselves in the water. They struggled to keep afloat, they said, and finally were rescued.

No Babies Born in 30 Years on Japanese Isle

Tokyo.—The population of the Ryukyu Islands, which lie between Japan and Formosa, is rapidly dying off, declared S. Sakurai, a health officer of the Okinawa prefecture, who attended the recent health conference in Tokyo. Malaria is blamed principally for the decrease. In eight villages of the Yoyama group, it was said, not a baby has been born for 30 years.

In Nozoko village, Mr. Sakurai said, one sick old woman was the only inhabitant. In 1922 an appropriation of 10,000 yen was made by the government to combat malaria in the islands.

CAR SKIDDED AND DRIVER WAS KILLED

Howard Seustel was Pinned Under Machine—Taken to Hospital by W. B. Watts.

Howard W. Seustel, 36, died Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Mercy hospital of injuries received two hours earlier on the Chillicothe pike, when the truck he was driving skidded on the slippery road, ran into a ditch and pinned him under the wreckage.

The truck he was driving was the property of the Stone Construction company, of Logan, by which he was employed as road foreman. He had been with the company about three months.

An ambulance was called but before it arrived, a passerby picked him up and took him to the hospital. The attending physicians said he suffered two broken ribs and it is believed that one of these punctured a blood vessel or his thorax, causing an internal hemorrhage.

Mr. Seustel is survived by his widow, two sons, a daughter and five stepchildren, his parents, two brothers and a sister,—Ohio State Journal.

The passerby referred to in the above article was W. B. Watts a rural mail carrier of this city. Mr. Watts, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Rena, were on their way to Columbus. Mr. Seustel, who was driving the truck, passed directly across the path of Mr. Watts' machine on the road at the Hartman farm. It was all Mr. Watts could do to apply his brakes as he had not a second to spare. A moment later the truck went into the fresh gravel and upset, pinning the driver to the ground.

UNIDENTIFIED DEAD MAN

Found In Automobile From Which Three Men Fled When Collision Occurs.

New York, Sept. 25.—(UP.)—

The body of a man who had been shot to death was found in the back seat of a big sedan today when a taxi driver and his fare approached the car which had collided with their machine.

When the collision occurred three men leaped from the sedan and fled.

In the dead man's pockets was found $1,400 in cash.

The collision took place at 98th street and Second Avenue. Murray Goff was the taxi driver and Samuel Bonn his fare.

The sedan, travelling at high speed, came out of 98th street to strike the taxi as it reached the corner. Goff and his passenger got out of the taxi, which was not seriously damaged and started towards the sedan when the trio leaped out, two of them with pistols in their hands, and fled west.

The two looked into the abandoned car and found the body half reclining on the car seat. In the left hand were two keys.

The dead man was of medium build, dark and about 28 years of age. Preliminary examination showed nothing to reveal his identity and the presence of the money in his pockets discounted a robbery theory.

Reconstructing the murder and tracing the probable route of the car, police believe two men sat on the seat with the dead man, while the driver sped through the streets; that there was trouble and the murder committed; and then that an attempt was made to reach the East River into which the body was to be thrown but this was thwarted by the collision.

Search so far has brought no trace of the murderers.

Check by the police showed the license plates on the death car did not belong to that machine—that they were taken from a cheap car of another make.

Additional search of the man's effects revealed a gold disc on which the Ten Commandments were inscribed in Hebrew, but there was nothing to reveal the man's identity.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Eighteen members of the Business and Professional Women's Club were the hostesses to the other members of the club at the home of Mrs. H. G. Stevenson, in West Main street on Tuesday evening. The members who were hostesses for the occasion were those whose birthdays have occurred within the past six months.

The affair was in the nature of a backward party. All the hostesses wearing the year of their birth pinned across their dress backwards and when seated at the tables the dessert was served first and the dinner followed. The house was beautifully decorated in Fall flowers for the occasion and the dining table was centered by a large bunch of marigolds and the small tables held bud vases containing the same beautiful decoration.

The evening was very pleasantly spent and thoroughly enjoyed.

Mrs. Graham asked the members of the club to make a donation individually to go as a whole as a donation to the Benevolent Association from the Club which was responded to very gladly.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

NEWSPAPERS AND CRIME.

Mr. Herbert Swope, of the New York World, addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors, defined the scope of journalism as "Life Reflected in Ink," and said that the people "must partake of the ugliness as well as the beauty."

It is true, nevertheless, that many managing editors permit and even encourage the printing of sordid, sensational details of crime, to be circulated in the homes of their friends and neighbors, that, if appearing in a book on the family reading table or the shelves of a school library, would call from these same editors a protest that would burn the binding and brand the authors as not fit for respectable association. Of course, times have changed since the days of Ben Franklin and Horace Greely—even the old Police Gazette has become passe—but that and other results speak for themselves.

The consensus of opinion among judges and people who come in touch with criminals is that the newspapers are largely responsible for the alarming increase of crime and general demoralization of youth, both boys and girls.

As a rule, the press strives to serve their public with what it wants, but a line should be drawn somewhere. Newspapers are, unquestionably, educational to a large degree, and it cannot be claimed that the spreading out of all these wretched stories of crime is the sort of education needed. It should not be up to the public to show newspapers what they want—it has been repeatedly demonstrated in more ways than one during the past few years that newspapers have the power to show the people what they want.

If the advertisers and chamber of commerce should take action on the subject, it would not be long before a marked improvement would be noticed in this particular.

Handy Building Platform

In building operations, a great deal of time and labor is expended in building and moving scaffolds. As a means of reducing this labor and expense and to enable work to be done at an inaccessible elevation without the building of a scaffold, a vehicular extension support has been patented. It consists of a platform on wheels which may be easily raised or lowered. Even when extended to its greatest height, it may be propelled by hand or electric power and steered to any position. Collapsible when not in use, it occupies little space.

AMUSEMENTS

The Paramount picture, "Sackcloth and Scarlet" produced by Henry King director of "The White Sister," "Romola," etc., and featuring Alice Terry and a prominent cast of players opens a two days' run Monday at the Met theater.

The story was adapted for the screen by Tom Geraghty, Jules Furthman and Julie Herne from the novel by George Gibbs and also ran serially in the Red Book Magazine. It deals with the lives and loves of two girls, sisters, all alone in the world. The younger of the two is the flighty sort who does her leaping first and thinking afterward. In the wild and woolly west in search of adventure she gets into trouble with a handsome young mountain guide and decamps east when he asks her to marry him. Later a baby boy is born in a little French village where Joan (Alice Terry) takes her sister.

Back in Washington with friends, Joan meets and falls in love with the same fellow who has made good and is now representing his townfolk in congress. But the other girl comes back from France and all but ruins the happiness of her sister.

Just how everything is straightened out in the end, how Joan, who had willingly given up everything even her good name to protect her sister, finally finds love and happiness is shown in a manner that makes "Sackcloth and Scarlet," as is claimed by its makers, one of the most humanly appealing and real pictures in many seasons.

Dorothy Sebastian, new to the screen, plays Polly, Alice Terry's wayward sister in the production. Orville Caldwell, prominent stage actor, is the man in the case. Other big names appear in support.

ROSS COUNTY
PREHISTORIC
EARTHWORKS

Recent Discoveries are Richest and Most Fruitful in Southern Ohio.

The relics of a prehistoric people discovered a few days ago in a mound in Ross county, southern Ohio, are among the most interesting of the recent finds made by American archaeologists east of the Mississippi valley. The mound undoubtedly dates from the period when the country was occupied by the mysterious and practically unknown race of people known as the mound builders. It is believed to have been the burial place of a family or group held in high esteem or reverence. The excavation revealed besides the human remains a great collection of pearls, some described as "large as hickory nuts," ornaments of silver, copper and tortoise shells and a structure that may be either a temple or a tomb.

Mounds of this character are numerous in Ohio; the one in which the excavations were made belonged to a large group along the border line between Ross and Adams counties. As is the case with many of the mounds in Missouri and in the lower Mississippi valley, they were undoubtedly mortuary mounds. The more distinctive of the prehistoric earthworks of the state, such as those at Circleville and Newark, are believed to have served both as defenses and as religious altars and shrines. The works at Circleville, from which the town received its name, were in the form of concentric rings and when first seen by white men were covered with a growth of tall trees; the works at Newark consisted of a circle more than a mile in circumference, from which radiated a number of sunken passages connecting the center fort with minor fortifications, some of which were twenty or thirty miles distant.

These earthworks, however, have not been fruitful in archaeological finds. Most of the remains have consisted of flint and stone weapons and implements and of stone pillars and blocks devoid of inscription, but which it is considered, were used in religious ceremonies. It is generally believed that the mounds in Ohio and those in Missouri are not of the same period. The Missouri mounds are held to be of a later date and were the work of the ancestors of the Indians whom the French and Spanish explorers found in the region. There has been no data by which the time of the building of the Ohio mounds may be determined with any degree of accuracy.

There is yet no evidence discovered by which the Ohio mound builders may be linked up with the prehistoric people of the Southwest. The remains which were uncovered early this year in the Nevada desert were those of a race of cliff dwellers and in some of the houses were found drawings of animals, birds and human beings, and also hieroglyphics as yet undeciphered, but holding possibilities of revealing something of a people who may have lived in America 3,000, perhaps even 5,000 years ago. The dryness of the desert climate and the fact that stone was the material mostly used for construction in the Southwest have been important factors in the preservation of the Nevada cliff dwellers' towns, while the fact that most of the Ohio mound builders built their houses of wood or earth in a climate subject to extreme changes of temperature may be the explanation that so few remains are to be found in that state.

The discoveries made a few days ago were the richest and most satisfying that have been made in the section, and the Ohio Museum, under the auspices of which the excavations were made, believes that they offer great encouragement to further investigation and exploration.—New York Sun.

Gave Skunks Right of Way

A party of Bangor motorists returning from Winterport, Maine, halted their car to let a moving obstruction have the right-of-way. The obstruction consisted of a family of skunks, including father, mother and three children, crossing the road in solemn single file.

Two More Payments

"Say, Mary, how much more do we owe the doctor?" asked an East side man of his wife.
"Why, only $10," she replied.
"Oh, goody," spoke up the oldest son. "In two more payments the baby is ours."

New Shade of Red
for Smart Costume

Dark, Rich Tone Is Scheduled to Appear in Stylish Autumn Garb.

The new Bordeaux red—a very dark, rich tone—will appear in many smart costumes for early autumn, and it is singularly striking without being so obvious as to be barred from the ranks of the practical, says a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. Premet has a new ensemble that makes use of this beautiful color and features the Premet line for the season. The dress is of Bordeaux red faille with long, rather loose sleeves and a straight skirt plaited in back. The trimming on this dress consists of a double band of two-inch grosgrain ribbon, slightly lighter in tone, that is attached at the center front of the round neck and extends down to the waistline, where it passes beneath a cluster of flat floral motifs with embroidered edges that are cut from the silk. These motifs extend almost to the bottom of the skirt in two loose ends. Over this is worn a coat of red kasha natte with a band scarf collar that ties in the center front in a little bow. There are bands of the material across the tops of the shoulders, and the skirt of the coat is cut circularly from the waistline at the sides and recedes in a V in back to within ten inches of the hemline. The sleeves are long and quite tight.

Autumn will bring out many sports coats and simple suits of the novelty materials that are so new and so smart. O'Rossen is showing suits of these materials with full length coats that flare from the waistline at the sides. The flare is created by means of insets of the patterned materials, very scanty godets with the pattern running in reverse direction to the body of the coat. Plain or plaited skirts are worn with such coats. Sports capes, double and single, with fitted shoulders are shown by some of the leading houses. Molyneux shows some of these capes for wear with his hip-jacket suits for autumn. Cape and suit are of the same material, which is usually a patterned fabric showing chevrons, zigzag stripes or shadow plaids.

Flowers, which only a year ago were so fashionable, are hardly noticeable these days in Paris. Very studied trimmings are seen on the new hats, trimmings of lizards, ribbon, feathers or painting, but no flowers. Too masculine styles are also out of fashion. The dainty, feminine frock is the latest chic.

Cuffed Sleeves Shown;
Also High Waistline

Here is a model showing the high waistline which some authorities claim will be the fall mode. The costume pictured here is in blue mirror-reen, trimmed with chapchilla, and showing the cuffed sleeves, one of the new notes in fashion.

Cotton Stockings Now
Paris Fashion Leader

Cotton stockings have returned! And the return has created a sensation in Paris. For, be it understood, these are not just ordinary cotton stockings. They are a glorious and extremely expensive article, and more expensive than all but the very sheerest silk ones. They are, too, inevitably, in beige. Every conceivable shade of beige, from deep coffee to palest champagne. These stockings take the dye beautifully in the first place, and retain their color well. They are specially designed for what the Parisienne calls "le footing," and are worn in the morning and even in the afternoon with tailored dresses.

Very thin, and marvelously soft, it is the clocks that are most striking. They are in wide openwork, six or eight rows of it, and often ornamented with a flat, smooth edition of the old French knot. Some have minute flowers embroidered up the sides instead—baby rosebuds, or forget-me-nots, or violets, in their proper colors.

Natural Inference

"Well, I'll tell you," said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, in reply to the motorist's request for direction. "You go up that hill yonder, ease down the slope, go about half a quarter this-a-way till you come to a schoolhouse with a couple of its winders not yet broke out, and—"

"A couple of its winders not yet broken out, eh?" returned the traveler. "How are the measles in this neighborhood?"—Kansas City Star.

ANOTHER COMMISSION

To Increase Taxes Will Soon Be Created—To Manage Traffic On Motor Busses.

Columbus, Sept. 25.—(UP.)—A federal interstate motor bus commission to manage traffic on motor busses like the Interstate Commerce Commission supervises the railroads is soon to be created, W. C. King, attorney for the New York Central railroad informed the Public Utilities Commission here today in argument of a case.

King was supporting a motion asking that the commission dismiss the application of the Interstate Motor Bus company of Chillicothe, to operate motor busses with sleeper service between Columbus and Charleston, W. Va.

King contended the contemplated new federal commission would have jurisdiction on such a proposal. The company insisted on having its case heard saying that the commission was not yet in existence.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

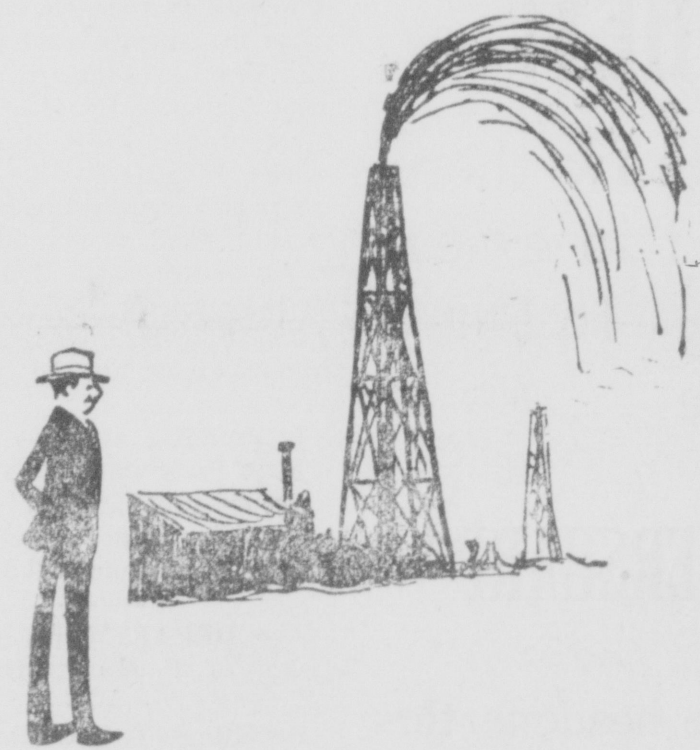

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

The Versatile Pineapple

PINEAPPLE has indeed been well named the most versatile fruit that we have. In desserts it is unrivaled and as a salad with cheese it is as delicious as it is good to look at. Its widespread popularity dates from the perfection of the canning process, for it is the canned product that is in greatest demand. Fresh pineapple is somewhat tasteless and is usually full of tough fibers.

Canned pineapple is packed in two ways for the convenience of the housewife—in slices for salads and desserts that require firm fruits, and shredded for ice cream, sherbets, fruit drinks, puddings, pies and other fancy desserts.

Recently the world has been developing a taste for saute pineapple and you will now find it served in this form with meat dishes. To saute pineapple place slices of it in a frying pan of hot butter and brown it slowly on both sides.

For a quick dessert nothing is more delicious or easier to make than shredded pineapple mixed with marshmallows cut in small pieces and bound together with whipped cream. If you like, a sprinkling of coconut can be added on top.

Crushed pineapple makes a delicious sandwich filling if mixed with cream cheese. It also adds flavor to ice cream when poured on like sundae sauce.

Pineapple Custard Pie

Mix one can of crushed pineapple, 1 cup sugar, 2-1/2 tablespoons flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 beaten egg and 1/2 tablespoon melted butter. Pour into a deep pastry lined pie plate. Put strips of pastry across the top and bake in hot oven 40 minutes, reducing heat during last 20 minutes of baking.

Pineapple Sherbet

Add 1/2 can of crushed pineapple and the juice of 1/2 lemon to 1 1/2 cups of grape juice. Dissolve 1 tablespoon of softened gelatin in 1/2 cup of boiling water. Add to mixture and freeze.

Pineapple Cheese Salad

Place slices of canned pineapple on lettuce leaves, allowing one slice for each person. Make French dressing and add 2 tablespoons of Roquefort, cream cheese or grated American cheese. After it is thoroughly mixed pour over pineapple and serve.

Pineapple Cake Glaze

Cream 1/2 cup lard, gradually adding 1-1/2 cups sugar. Add 1 well beaten egg. Sift 2 1/2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, and 1/2 teaspoon salt, and add to the first mixture alternately with 1 cup cold water. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in an iron spider and add 1 cup brown sugar, stirring until smooth. Spread with a layer of well drained crushed pineapple, pour batter over this and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Turn out on a plate, cool thoroughly, spread with whipped cream and serve.

Dairy Cow Efficient Food Producer

With increasing rentals and values of farm land, dairy farming is rapidly replacing other types of live stock farming. A dairy cow producing 8,000 pounds of milk a year furnishes 1,600 pounds of dry matter, all of which is edible and digestible. A two year old steer weighing between 1,200 and 1,300 pounds furnishes about 550 pounds of dry matter. Not all of which can be used for food. In other words a fairly good producing dairy cow furnishes twice as much edible dry matter as a two year old steer when he is killed for meat. A cow can be kept for additional years of service, while to replace the steer, another animal must be fed for a period of two years.

The United States consumption of milk per capita has increased from 42 gallons of whole milk in 1918 to more than 54 gallons in 1925.

With growing acceptance of milk as a food has come an increasing knowledge of the proper care of milk on the farm. Because odors from foods and animals in the cow stable are easily taken up by milk, injuring its flavor, they must not come in contact with the milk. Removal of the milk from the stable as soon as possible reduces the amount of dust and dirt entering it and keeps down the bacterial growth in the milk.

Bacteria increase rapidly in warm milk causing it to sour quickly. Removal of the animal heat from freshly drawn milk by lowering the temperature to that of cold well water (approximately 60° F.), greatly aids in preventing bacterial growth. A well lighted, well ventilated milk house, not too close to the stable, is also very helpful.

Cleanliness in the stable is vitally necessary. The stall platform should be just long enough for the cow to stand comfortably without room to spare; otherwise, the cow will become dirty from droppings when she lies down. The gutter should

SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Celebrated Sunday By Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Bates at the Home of Their Son In East Main Street.

On Sunday, September 27th, at the residence of their son, Robert H., with five of their living children, and other relatives and friends present, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Bates observed the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage, which was performed September 26th, 1865, at Bardstown, Nelson County, Kentucky, by Rev. J. V. Crosby. The groom was born in Wolverhampton, England, on the 18th day of December, 1839; the bride in Bardstown, July 23rd, 1848, her ancestors being of earlier settlers of Kentucky. A sumptuous dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bates. After partaking of same felicitous remarks were addressed the long married pair.

Many messages and tokens of congratulations, local and abroad, were showered upon the loved ones.

They were also presented with a purse of gold and other beautiful gifts.

The dining room was prettily decorated with large baskets and vases of beautiful dahlias.

For persons of their age they are active and cheerful, especially so the groom despite handicap of accident when in 79th year, effects of which will remain through life. All present wished the worthy couple added years of comfort and happiness.

The guests present from out-of-town were their daughters, Mrs. John F. Small, of Norfolk, Virginia; Mrs. John K. Knowles, of Toledo, and son James T. Bates, of Portsmouth.

The vitrophone will begin to loosen and can easily be removed with a thin knife blade.

KEEPING WELL

MOSQUITOES CONVICTED OF MURDER

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN Editor of "HEALTH"

WHEN Laveran, in 1880, discovered the malaria germ in the blood of patients who had "chills and fever" he solved a problem which had puzzled the world for centuries.

But how did this germ get into the patient's blood? Until this was known, there was no way of preventing the disease.

Malaria is generally found in the neighborhood of marshes. Did the germ get into the body through drinking stagnant water?

Experiments showed that persons given marsh water to drink did not get malaria, neither were the malaria germs found in stagnant water.

It had long been believed by the peasants in Italy that mosquitoes were responsible for malaria but there was no evidence to support the idea.

In 1854, Louis David Beauprethuy, a French physician and naturalist, decided that malaria was caused by mosquito bites and that the disease occurred near swamps and marshes, not because the swampy ground gave off poison, but because mosquitoes bred in such places in great quantities.

Charles Finlay of Havana, in 1881, came to the same conclusion. He added the suggestion that the mosquitoes were simply carriers who conveyed the disease from a sick person to a well person.

But all this was theory. There were no facts to prove it. It was not until 1895 that Sir Ronald Ross, an English surgeon in the medical service in India, was ordered to a district in which malaria was very common and began a series of experiments by which he proved that malaria is carried by one kind of mosquito, now known as the anopholes mosquito, and that it is only carried by the female.

If a lady anopholes bites a person suffering from malaria and sucks his blood, the germs develop in the body of the mosquito. At the end of 12 days, if the infected mosquito bites a healthy person, the malaria germs pass into the body of the healthy person and cause chills and fever. The same mosquito can infect any number of persons. Infection generally takes place at night, when the mosquito comes from her hiding place in search of food.

Since only mosquitoes can carry malaria, the control of the disease is purely a question of the control of mosquitoes.

WRITING

Like Edison's Adopted For Children To Improve Legibility.

A handwriting that is almost the counterpart of the style invented by Thomas A. Edison has been adopted by a New York City school. Letters are formed separately and no flourishes are used.

The new style of handwriting came to this country from England and is the result of a study of old manuscripts. Edison invented the style he uses when he was a telegraph operator. He found that the style of writing taught in the schools was neither legible nor fast. So after much experimenting, he copied the letter forms of type and discovered that "he could make better speed by not using flourishes or joining letters."

This writing which parallels that of Edison's has been taught in English schools for several years. It is a copy of the style used by monks during the Middle Ages when all books were written by hand, before the invention of printing.

Experiments made with British and American children, according to an article upon the new writing in the October McClure's Magazine, prove the success of the theory.

Why Is This?

Although most people insist their feet grow hotter in warm weather when they wear shoes with composition soles, tests by the bureau of standards indicate the composite material does not conduct any more heat than leather.

SAVE THEM

Circleville, Ohio, R. F. D. 1, Aug. 26, 1924.

MR. F. L. PICKARDT: All spring I have been having trouble with my flock, both young and old. During July I lost about 100. Quite a number had LIMBER NECK or PTOMAIN. About August 1st, I began use of your DROPS, and I can say the results fully justified your statements. One case of Limber-Neck was too sick to take the medicine. I gave it some with a dropper, thinking then it was a waste of time, but the next morning it was still around and finally got well. The rest of my flock straightened out and are doing well now.

Sincerely, MRS. LUCY HONNOLD, Celina, Ohio, R. F. D. 4, June 19, 1925.

Find enclosed one dollar for which send me Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops.

I used one package and it helped my chickens and cured them of cholera.

I thank you, Mrs. L. P. Lenhart.

P. S.—Send as soon as possible, a neighbor wants some of it for her chickens are sick.

FICKARDT'S ROUP and CHOLERA DROPS is a remedy for Roup, Colds, Sneezing, Limber-neck, White Diarrhea and Bowel Disorders. Price 50c. Tablets by mail, liquid from Dealers. F. L. PICKARDT, Circleville, Ohio.

F. L. PICKARDT: Dear Sir:—

Planned "Gateway of Peace" for War Dead

Geneva, Switzerland.—Col. E. N. House, once personal adviser to President Woodrow Wilson, on making his first visit to the League of Nations he helped to evolve, revealed that he took an option on 1,000 acres along the shore of Lake Lemman, six miles outside of Geneva, when the covenant was being drafted in Paris. The plan was to erect a league palace and a great "gateway of peace" in honor to the war dead, but the idea was abandoned when the United States did not enter the league.

Colonel House told newspaper correspondents that the league was only half a league while the United States, Germany and Russia were outside, and urged American associate membership without covenant obligations.

"Had the United States maintained her word of enthusiasm and joined the league war would have been banished for all time," declared Colonel House. He added that he had embodied the essentials of the peace protocol—arbitration, security and disarmament—in the first draft of the covenant he wrote in 1918, but President Wilson thought he went too far.

GOVERNOR AL SMITH FOR PRESIDENT

ASSAILS FEDERAL BOASTS OF ECONOMICAL GOVERNMENT

Tells Thousands What He Would Do Were He In Charge of the Government Helm—Interpreted for 1928 --The Democratic Hope Greeted By a Number of Leading National Politicians.

From a rough platform in the Beverly Hills Forest preserves, Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, as guest of honor at a picnic of Cook county Democrats Sunday outlined to several thousand persons what Democratic leaders in Chicago considered to be the principles upon which he may wage a fight for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

Thousands who went to the picnic expecting a fiery attack upon prohibition, or the Ku Klux Klan, with an outspoken declaration of White House ambitions, however, were disappointed. No reference was made by the governor to any of these subjects, and any discussion of presidential aspirations was confined to private conferences with Democratic leaders from several states of the middle west who came to Chicago to meet him.

Governor Smith, however, outlined a tentative program of reform in Washington that he said would save $200,000,000 a year and bring governmental affairs in line with the progress in science and business "in this airplane age."

Mayor William E. Dever, of Chicago, introduced the New York executive before a throng, cheering wildly for "Al," as "a man who stands forth in the public opinion of the nation not only as a great Democratic leader, but as one who is generally regarded as the most popular, the most competent and the most brilliant party leader in the nation."

Dressed in formal black and wearing a flower in his buttonhole, Governor Smith lost no time in launching into his message after the demonstration had subsided.

"There is a propaganda now being circulated," he said, "that the heavy burden of taxation is from local sources and that the federal government is effecting a wonderful economy. We ought to speak the facts. The reductions in national expenditures are largely due to the changing of the country from a war to a peace basis. In the states and cities an attempt is being made to catch up with public improvements delayed by the war. During the war the government requested the states not to use men and materials required for war. There was a lull in improvements."

"It is not entirely fair to the cities and states to seek to put the blame there. I am about to return to New York to begin an active campaign for the elimination of dangerous railroad crossings. We have more than 4,000 such crossings and under the present rate of progress it would take 280 years to make them safe. We are proposing a $300,000,000 bond issue for this purpose."

"In the last 20 years we have passed thru a period of the greatest material achievements the world has ever known. One thing has stood still and that is the processes of government, particularly in the states and at Washington."

"We have proposed a remedy in the consolidation of all the standard activities of government to take off the invisible hand that has guided it in our state. It was tried in Illinois, with the Lowden consolidation by statute, but lacking the power of constitutional backing, his successors in office promptly sought to undo the whole thing."

"We propose to reduce 183 departments to 21 constitutional departments and to compel all new activities to come into these departments."

"Senator Curtis has suggested, I read in an editorial, that the scattered activities at Washington, if consolidated, would effect an annual saving of about $200,000,000. In the fall of 1921, the then secretary of the postal department held this system up to ridicule, showing that road activities are in five departments, wild life in six departments. We are on a fair way to solution of some of these problems to the end that the government keep harmonious step with business, science, medicine and the other great developments of the last twenty years."

Governor Smith left for New York Saturday night. Among the Democratic leaders who conferred with him were: George Brennan, of Illinois; Joseph Guffey, National committeeman from Pennsylvania; David Lawrence of Pittsburgh; Martin Luick and James Callahan of Milwaukee; W. J. Quinn, of St. Paul and a delegation from Nebraska. The Nebraskans were the three delegates from that state to last year's national convention who voted for Governor Smith all thru the balloting.

SURVIVORS OF SUBMARINE TELL STORY

Men Were Asleep When the Crash Came and Their Escape Was Miraculous.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 28 (UP).—Arriving here late Saturday on the steamer, City of Rome, the three survivors of the S-51 disaster told how they escaped from the crippled submarine after she had been struck by the steamship.

All three men, Alfred Geier, of New Bedford, Dewey Kile, of Peoria, Mississippi, and Michael S. Lira, of St. Louis, agreed that they survived only thru a miracle.

They said they were asleep in their hammocks below when the crash occurred. Lira said he was thrown from his hammock and then blindly made his way up the ladder, preceded by Commander Dobson. He knew nothing further, he said until he was taken from the water.

Geier and Kile said the first they remembered was when they found themselves in the water. They struggled to keep afloat, they said, and finally were rescued.

No Babies Born in 30 Years on Japanese Isle

Tokyo.—The population of the Ryukyu islands, which lie between Japan and Formosa, is rapidly dying off, declared S. Sakurai, a health officer of the Okinawa prefecture, who attended the recent health conference in Tokyo. Malaria is blamed principally for the decrease. In eight villages of the Yocoyama group, it was said, not a baby has been born for 30 years.

In Nozoko village, Mr. Sakurai said, one sick old woman was the only inhabitant. In 1922 an appropriation of 10,000 yen was made by the government to combat malaria in the islands.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE AND TWO ARE HURT

Albert Sowers and Ernest Brigner Charged With Driving While Intoxicated.

A Ford car occupied by Grover Duddleson and family, of Pickaway township, was run into by an auto on South Court street Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock. Albert Sowers and Ernest Brigner were placed under arrest charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and were placed in the city prison.

Two of Mr. Duddleson's children, Fred, a boy of eight years and Fannie, four year of age, were badly cut about the face, by flying broken glass. They were taken to the office of Dr. D. V. Courtwright where their wounds were dressed.

Both of the men in the other car were also injured to some extent, receiving cuts about the face and body.

STEPPED FROM CAR BEFORE IT HAD STOPPED

Mrs. Lafayette Eby was Severely Injured--Thrown on Her Head.

Mrs. Lafayette Eby, who resides on Lovers' Lane, was severely injured Saturday evening about six o'clock when she stepped from an auto before the car stopped. She was riding in the car of Henry Duey and was going to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Wilson, who lives on East Main street. The car had just pulled up in front of her daughter's home. When Mrs. Eby alighted she was thrown on her head. She was taken to her home and Dr. G. W. Heffner was called. Mrs. Eby was unconscious for several hours, but her condition this morning was considerably improved.

CAR SKIDDED AND DRIVER WAS KILLED

Howard Seustel was Pinned Under Machine—Taken to Hospital by W. B. Watts.

Howard W. Seustel, 36, died Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Mercy hospital of injuries received two hours earlier on the Chillicothe pike, when the truck he was driving skidded on the slippery road, ran into a ditch and pinned him under the wreckage.

The truck he was driving was the property of the Stone Construction company, of Logan, by which he was employed as road foreman. He had been with the company about three months.

An ambulance was called but before it arrived, a passerby picked him up and took him to the hospital. The attending physicians said he suffered two broken ribs and it is believed that one of these punctured a blood vessel or his thorax, causing an internal hemorrhage.

Mr. Seustel is survived by his widow, two sons, a daughter and five stepchildren, his parents, two brothers and a sister.—Ohio State Journal.

The passerby referred to in the above article was W. B. Watts a rural mail carrier of this city. Mr. Watts, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Rema, were on their way to Columbus. Mr. Seustel, who was driving the truck, passed directly across the path of Mr. Watts' machine on the road at the Hartman farm. It was all Mr. Watts could do to apply his brakes as he had not a second to spare. A moment later the truck went into the fresh gravel and upset, pinning the driver to the ground.

UNIDENTIFIED DEAD MAN

Found In Automobile From Which Three Men Fled When Collision Occurs.

New York, Sept. 25.—(U.P.)—The body of a man who had been shot to death was found in the back seat of a big sedan today when a taxi driver and his fare approached the car which had collided with their machine.

When the collision occurred three men leaped from the sedan and fled.

In the dead man's pockets was found $1,400 in cash.

The collision took place at 98th street and Second Avenue. Murray Goff was the taxi driver and Samuel Bonn his fare.

The sedan, travelling at high speed, came out of 98th street to strike the taxi as it reached the corner. Goff and his passenger got out of the taxi, which was not seriously damaged and started towards the sedan when the trio leaped out, two of them with pistols in their hands, and fled west.

The two looked into the abandoned car and found the body half reclining on the car seat. In the left hand were two keys.

The dead man was of medium build, dark and about 28 years of age. Preliminary examination showed nothing to reveal his identity and the presence of the money in his pockets discounted a robbery theory.

Reconstructing the murder and tracing the probable route of the car, police believe two men sat on the seat with the dead man, while the driver sped through the streets; that there was trouble and the murder committed; and then that an attempt was made to reach the East River into which the body was to be thrown but this was thwarted by the collision.

Search so far has brought no trace of the murderers.

Check by the police showed the license plates on the death car did not belong to that machine—that they were taken from a cheap car of another make.

Additional search of the man's effects revealed a gold disc on which the Ten Commandments were inscribed in Hebrew, but there was nothing to reveal the man's identity.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Eighteen members of the Business and Professional Women's Club were the hostesses to the other members of the club at the home of Mrs. H. G. Stevenson, in West Main street on Tuesday evening. The members who were hostesses for the occasion were those whose birthdays have occurred within the past six months.

The affair was in the nature of a backward party. All the hostesses wearing the year of their birth pinned across their dress backwards and when seated at the tables the dessert was served first and the dinner followed. The house was beautifully decorated in Fall flowers for the occasion and the dining table was centered by a large bunch of marigolds and the small tables held bud vases containing the same beautiful decoration.

The evening was very pleasantly spent and thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. Graham asked the members of the club to make a donation individually to go as a whole as a donation to the Benevolent Association from the Club which was responded to very gladly.

I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. NEWSPAPERS AND CRIME.

Mr. Herbert Swope, of the New York World, addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors, defined the scope of journalism as "Life Reflected in Ink," and said that the people "must partake of the ugliness as well as the beauty."

It is true, nevertheless, that many managing editors permit and even encourage the printing of sordid, sensational details of crime, to be circulated in the homes of their friends and neighbors, that, if appearing in a book on the family reading table or the shelves of a school library, would call from these same editors a protest that would burn the binding and brand the authors as not fit for respectable association. Of course, times have changed since the days of Ben Franklin and Horace Greeley—even the old Police Gazette has become passe—but that and other results speak for themselves.

The consensus of opinion among judges and people who come in touch with criminals is that the newspapers are largely responsible for the alarming increase of crime and general demoralization of youth, both boys and girls.

As a rule, the press strives to serve their public with what it wants, but a line should be drawn somewhere. Newspapers are, unquestionably, educational to a large degree, and it cannot be claimed that the spreading out of all these wretched stories of crime is the sort of education needed. It should not be up to the public to show newspapers what they want—it has been repeatedly demonstrated in more ways than one during the past few years that newspapers have the power to show the people what they want.

If the advertisers and chamber of commerce should take action on the subject, it would not be long before a marked improvement would be noticed in this particular.

Handy Building Platform

In building operations, a great deal of time and labor is expended in building and moving scaffolds. As a means of reducing this labor and expense and to enable work to be done at an inaccessible elevation without the building of a scaffold, a vehicular extension support has been patented. It consists of a platform on wheels which may be easily raised or lowered. Even when extended to its greatest height, it may be propelled by hand or electric power and steered to any position. Collapsible when not in use, it occupies little space.

AMUSEMENTS

The Paramount picture, "Sackcloth and Scarlet" produced by Henry King director of "The White Sister," "Romola," etc., and featuring Alice Terry and a prominent cast of players opens a two days' run Monday at the Met theater.

The story was adapted for the screen by Tom Geraghty, Jules Furthman and Julie Herne from the novel by George Gibbs and also ran serially in the Red Book Magazine. It deals with the lives and loves of two girls, sisters, all alone in the world. The younger of the two is the flighty sort who does her leaping first and thinking afterward. Out in the wild and woolly west in search of adventure she gets into trouble with a handsome young mountain guide and decamps early when he asks her to marry him. Later a baby boy is born in a little French village where Joan (Alice Terry) takes her sister.

Back in Washington with friends, Joan meets and falls in love with the same fellow who has made good and is now representing his townfolk in congress. But the other girl comes back from France and all but ruins the happiness of her sister.

Just how everything is straightened out in the end, how Joan, who had willingly given up everything even her good name to protect her sister, finally finds love and happiness is shown in a manner that makes "Sackcloth and Scarlet," as is claimed by its makers, one of the most humanly appealing and real pictures in many seasons.

Dorothy Sebastian, new to the screen, plays Polly, Alice Terry's wayward sister in the production. Orville Caldwell, prominent stage actor, is the man in the case. Other big names appear in support.

ROSS COUNTY
PREHISTORIC
EARTHWORKS

Recent Discoveries are Richest and Most Fruitful in Southern Ohio.

The relics of a prehistoric people discovered a few days ago in a mound in Ross county, southern Ohio, are among the most interesting of the recent finds made by American archaeologists east of the Mississippi valley. The mound undoubtedly dates from the period when the country was occupied by the mysterious and practically unknown race of people known as the mound builders. It is believed to have been the burial place of a family or group held in high esteem or reverence. The excavation revealed besides the human remains a great collection of pearls, some described as "large as hickory nuts," ornaments of silver, copper and tortoise shells and a structure that may be either a temple or a tomb.

Mounds of this character are numerous in Ohio; the one in which the excavations were made belonged to a large group along the border line between Ross and Adams counties. As is the case with many of the mounds in Missouri and in the lower Mississippi valley, they were undoubtedly mortuary mounds. The more distinctive of the prehistoric earthworks of the state, such as those at Circleville and Newark, are believed to have served both as defenses and as religious altars and shrines. The works at Circleville, from which the town received its name, were in the form of concentric rings and when first seen by white men were covered with a growth of tall trees; the works at Newark consisted of a circle more than a mile in circumference, from which radiated a number of sunken passages connecting the center fort with minor fortifications, some of which were twenty or thirty miles distant.

These earthworks, however, have not been fruitful in archaeological finds. Most of the remains have consisted of flint and stone weapons and implements and of stone pillars and blocks devoid of inscription, but which it is considered, were used in religious ceremonies. It is generally believed that the mounds in Ohio and those in Missouri are not of the same period. The Missouri mounds are held to be of a later date and were the work of the ancestors of the Indians whom the French and Spanish explorers found in the region. There has been no data by which the time of the building of the Ohio mounds may be determined with any degree of accuracy.

There is yet no evidence discovered by which the Ohio mound builders may be linked up with the prehistoric people of the Southwest. The remains which were uncovered early this year in the Nevada desert were those of a race of cliff dwellers and in some of the houses were found drawings of animals, birds and human beings, and also hieroglyphics as yet undeciphered, but holding possibilities of revealing something of a people who may have lived in America 3,000, perhaps even 5,000 years ago. The dryness of the desert climate and the fact that stone was the material mostly used for construction in the Southwest have been important factors in the preservation of the Nevada cliff dwellers' towns, while the fact that most of the Ohio mound builders built their houses of wood or earth in a climate subject to extreme changes of temperature may be the explanation that so few remains are to be found in that state.

The discoveries made a few days ago were the richest and most satisfying that have been made in the section, and the Ohio Museum, under the auspices of which the excavations were made, believes that they offer great encouragement to further investigation and exploration.—New York Sun.

Two More Payments

"Say, Mary, how much more do we owe the doctor?" asked an East side man of his wife.

"Oh, goody," spoke up the oldest son. "In two more payments the baby is ours."

New Shade of Red
for Smart Costume

Dark, Rich Tone Is Scheduled to Appear in Stylish Autumn Garb.

The new bordeaux red—a very dark, rich tone—will appear in many smart costumes for early autumn, and it is singularly striking without being so obvious as to be barred from the ranks of the practical, says a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. Premet has a new ensemble that makes use of this beautiful color and features the Premet line for the season. The dress is of bordeaux red faille with long, rather loose sleeves and a straight skirt plaited in back. The trimming on this dress consists of a double band of two-inch grosgrain ribbon, slightly lighter in tone, that is attached at the center front of the round neck and extends down to the waistline, where it passes beneath a cluster of flat floral motifs with embroidered edges that are cut from the silk. These motifs extend almost to the bottom of the skirt in two loose ends. Over this is worn a coat of red kasha natte with a band scarf collar that ties in the center front in a little bow. There are bands of the material across the tops of the shoulders, and the skirt of the coat is cut circularly from the waistline at the sides and recedes in a V in back to within ten inches of the hemline. The sleeves are long and quite tight.

Autumn will bring out many sports coats and simple suits of the novelty materials that are so new and so smart. O'Rossen is showing suits of these materials with full length coats that flare from the waistline at the sides. The flare is created by means of insets of the patterned materials, very scanty godets with the pattern running in reverse direction to the body of the coat. Plain or plaited skirts are worn with such coats. Sports capes, double and single, with fitted shoulders are shown by some of the leading houses. Molyneux shows some of these capes for wear with his hip-jacket suits for autumn. Cape and suit are of the same material, which is usually a patterned fabric showing chevrons, zigzag stripes or shadow plaids.

Flowers, which only a year ago were so fashionable, are hardly noticeable these days in Paris. Very studied trimmings are seen on the new hats, trimmings of lizards, ribbon, feathers or painting, but no flowers. Too masculine styles are also out of fashion. The dainty, feminine frock is the latest chic.

Cuffed Sleeves Shown;
Also High Waistline

Here is a model showing the high waistline which some authorities claim will be the fall mode. The costume pictured here is in blue mirror-lean, trimmed with chapchilla, and showing the cuffed sleeves, one of the new notes in fashion.

Cotton Stockings Now
Paris Fashion Leader

Cotton stockings have returned! And the return has created a sensation in Paris. For, be it understood, these are not just ordinary cotton stockings. They are a glorious and extremely expensive article, and more expensive than all but the very sheerest silk ones. They are, too, inevitably, in beige. Every conceivable shade of beige, from deep coffee to palest champagne. These stockings take the dye beautifully in the first place, and retain their color well. They are specially designed for what the Parisienne calls "le footing," and are worn in the morning and even in the afternoon with tailored dresses.

Very thin, and marvelously soft, it is the clocks that are most striking. They are in wide openwork, six or eight rows of it, and often ornamented with a flat, smooth edition of the old French knot. Some have minute flowers embroidered up the sides instead—baby rosebuds, or forget-me-nots, or violets, in their proper colors.

PITHY POINTS

The best carpenter does not make the most chips.
It needs but a little neglect to breed a great mischief.
A decent boldness ever meets with friends.—Homer.
Sympathy without help is like mustard without meat.
When everybody says it, nobody knows it for certain.
When an optimist gets the worst of it he makes the best of it.
That danger which is despised arrives the soonest.—Laelius.
Be aggressive, but don't forget to be agreeable at the same time.
The theatrical "angel" is wingless, but his money flies just the same.
If a man tips the scales at 300 his opinion carries great weight with it.
A really good man had rather be deceived than be suspicious.—Butler.
Don't think that because a man holds a position of trust he will trust you.
Don't make belittling remarks about yourself, for fear of being not contradicted.

Not everyone has time to read the short stories in the periodicals to see if they are good.

Geniuses, it is said, are not happy. Which is about the only consolation for not being one.

A man may be distant because he doesn't want anyone to be curiously exploring his soul.

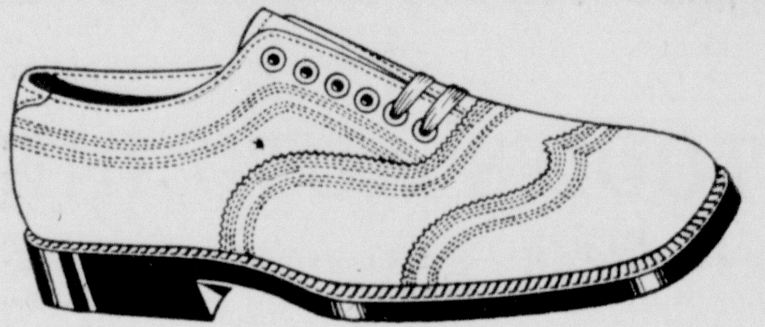

If some men were known by the company they keep they wouldn't be able to keep it long.

Many a man would attend a lecture if it were on something he is interested in. Make it that kind.

Natural Inference

"Well, I'll tell you," said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, in reply to the motorist's request for direction. "You go up that hill yonder, ease down the slope, go about half a quarter thisaway till you come to a schoolhouse with a couple of its winders not yet broke out, and—"

"A couple of its winders not yet broke out, eh?" returned the traveler. "How are the measles in this neighborhood?"—Kansas City Star.

Chairs and Tables—small and large—for the living rooms are displayed in groups so that your choice will not be hampered by endless rows of each article.

Eight-sided center tables usable for games, dining, occasional or every-day living room use, and are finished in mahogany, walnut or decorated enamel.

Windsor types in chairs, settees, tables and benches are popular. Early American mahogany items for use with almost any type of furniture.

Birds Faster Than Trains
Wild birds are capable of attaining great speed in flight. There is on record a swallow that traveled at the rate of 106 miles an hour, and a homing pigeon commonly will go more than 60 miles an hour, it is said. Even a pelican has been known to make 50 miles an hour and a wild duck has been credited with 59 miles an hour.

Her Recognition
Small Elizabeth and her mother were walking down the street when they saw an urchin approaching them. Elizabeth stuck out her tongue. When they had gone on, her mother inquired "Why did you stick out your tongue at that little boy we just passed." There was a pause while Elizabeth considered. "Why?" she replied, at length. "Why, mother, to show him I recognized him!"

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity
Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide
(1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
(2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
(3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.
This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.
Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

ANOTHER COMMISSION
To Increase Taxes Will Soon Be Created—To Manage Traffic On Motor Busses.
Columbus, Sept. 25.—(UP.)—A federal interstate motor bus commission to manage traffic on motor busses like the Interstate Commerce Commission supervises the railroads is soon to be created, W. C. King, attorney for the New York Central railroad informed the Public Utilities Commission here today in argument of a case.
King was supporting a motion asking that the commission dismiss the application of the Interstate Motor Bus company of Chillicothe, to operate motor busses with sleeper service between Columbus and Charleston, W. Va.
King contended the contemplated new federal commission would have jurisdiction on such a proposal. The company insisted on having its case heard saying that the commission was not yet in existence.

OPENING OF FEDERAL

Washington, Sept. 25.—(UP.)—Opening of the new federal reformatory for first offenders at Chillicothe, Ohio, will be delayed for several weeks, Justice department officials said today. The date of opening cannot be earlier than 30 days from now but it probably will be before January 1, officials said.

The Versatile Pineapple

PINEAPPLE has indeed been well named the most versatile fruit that we have. In desserts it is unrivaled and as a salad with cheese it is as delicious as it is good to look at. Its widespread popularity came from the perfection of the canning process, for it is the canned product that is in greatest demand. Fresh pineapple is somewhat tasteless and is usually full of tough fibers.

Canned pineapple is packed in two ways for the convenience of the housewife—in slices for salads and desserts that require firm fruits, and shredded for ice cream, sherbets, fruit drinks, puddings, pies and other fancy desserts.

Recently the world has been developing a taste for saute pineapple and you will now find it served in this form with meat dishes. To saute pineapple place slices of it in a frying pan of hot butter and brown it slowly on both sides.

For a quick dessert nothing is more delicious or easier to make than shredded pineapple mixed with marshmallows cut in small pieces and bound together with whipped cream. If you like, a sprinkling of coconut can be added on top.

Crushed pineapple makes a delicious sandwich filling if mixed with cream cheese. It also adds flavor to ice cream when poured on like sundae sauce.

Pineapple Sherbet

Add ½ can of crushed pineapple and the juice of ½ lemon to 1½ cups of grape juice. Dissolve 1 tablespoon of softened gelatin in ½ cup of boiling water. Add to mixture and freeze.

Pineapple Cheese Salad

Place slices of canned pineapple on lettuce leaves, allowing one slice for each person. Make French dressing and add 2 tablespoons of Roquefort, cream cheese or grated American cheese. After it is thoroughly mixed pour over pineapple and serve.

Pineapple Cake Glaze

Cream ½ cup lard, gradually adding 1½ cups sugar. Add 1 well beaten egg. Sift 2 ½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, and ¼ teaspoon salt, and add to the first mixture alternately with 1 cup cold water. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in an iron spider and add 1 cup brown sugar, stirring until smooth. Spread with a layer of well drained crushed pineapple, pour batter over this and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Turn out on a plate, cool thoroughly, spread with whipped cream and serve.

Pineapple Custard Pie

Mix one can of crushed pineapple, 1 cup sugar, 2½ tablespoons flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 beaten egg and ½ tablespoon melted butter.

SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Celebrated Sunday By Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Bates at the Home of Their Son In East Main Street.

On Sunday, September 27th, at the residence of their son, Robert H., with five of their living children, and other relatives and friends present, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Bates observed the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage, which was performed September 26th, 1865, at Bardstons, Nelson County, Kentucky, by Rev. J. V. Crosby. The groom was born in Wolverhampton, England, on the 18th day of December, 1839; the bride in Bardstons, July 23rd, 1848, her ancestors being of earlier settlers of Kentucky. A sumptuous dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bates. After partaking of same felicitous remarks were addressed the long married pair.

Many messages and tokens of congratulations, local and abroad, were showered upon the loved ones.

They were also presented with a purse of gold and other beautiful gifts.

The dining room was prettily decorated with large baskets and vases of beautiful dahlias.

For persons of their age they are active and cheerful, especially so the groom despite handicap of accident when in 79th year, effects of which will remain through life. All present wished the worthy couple added years of comfort and happiness.

The guests present from out-of-town were their daughters, Mrs. John F. Small, of Norfolk, Virginia; Mrs. John K. Knowles, of Toledo, and son James T. Bates, of Portsmouth.

WRITING

Like Edison's Adopted For Children To Improve Legibility.

A handwriting that is almost the counterpart of the style invented by Thomas A. Edison has been adopted by a New York City school. Letters are formed separately and no flourishes are used.

The new style of handwriting came to this country from England and is the result of a study of old manuscripts. Edison invented the style he uses when he was a telegraph operator. He found that the style of writing taught in the schools was neither legible nor fast. So after much experimenting, he copied the letter forms of type and discovered that "he could make better speed by not using flourishes or joining letters."

This writing which parallels that of Edison's has been taught in English schools for several years. It is a copy of the style used by monks during the Middle Ages when all books were written by hand, before the invention of printing.

Experiments made with British and American children, according to an article upon the new writing in the October McClure's Magazine, prove the success of the theory.

Why Is This?

Although most people insist their feet grow hotter in warm weather when they wear shoes with composition soles, tests by the bureau of standards indicate the composite material does not conduct any more heat than leather.

SAVE THEM

Circleville, Ohio, R. F. D. 1, Aug. 26, 1924.

MR. F. L. FICKARDT: All spring I have been having trouble with my flock, both young and old. During July I lost about 100. Quite a number had LIMBER NECK or PTOMAIN. About August 1st, I began use of your DROPS, and I can say the results fully justified your statement. One case of Limber-Neck was too sick to take the medicine. I gave it some with a dropper, thinking then it was a waste of time, but the next morning it was still around and finally got well. The rest of my flock straightened out and are doing well now.

Sincerely, MRS. LUCY HONNOLD.

F. L. FICKARDT:

Dear Sir:—

Dairy Cow Efficient Food Producer

With increasing rentals and values of farm lands, dairy farming is rapidly replacing other types of live stock farming. A dairy cow producing 8,000 pounds of milk a year furnishes 1,600 pounds of dry matter, all of which is edible and digestible. A two year old steer weighing between 1,200 and 1,300 pounds furnishes about 550 pounds of dry matter, not all of which can be used for feed. In other words a fairly good producing dairy cow furnishes twice as much edible dry matter as a two year old steer. A two year old steer when he is killed for meat. A cow can be kept for additional years of service, while to replace the steer, another animal must be fed for a period of two years.

The United States consumption of milk per capita has increased from 42 gallons of whole milk in 1915 to more than 54 gallons in 1925.

With growing acceptance of milk as a food has come an increasing knowledge of the proper care of milk on the farm. Because odors from foods and animals in the cow stable are easily taken up by milk, injuring its flavor, they must not come in contact with the milk. Removal of the milk from the stable as soon as possible reduces the amount of dust and dirt entering it and keeps down the bacterial growth in the milk.

Bacteria increase rapidly in warm milk causing it to sour quickly. Removal of the animal heat from freshly drawn milk by lowering the temperature to that of cold well water (approximately 60° F.), greatly aids in preventing bacterial growth. A well ventilated, well milked house, not too close to the stable, is also very helpful.

Cleanliness in the stable is vitally necessary. The stall platform should be just long enough for the cow to stand comfortably without room to spare; otherwise, the cow will become dirty from droppings when she lies down. The gutter should be wide and deep. A good gutter is 16 inches to 18 inches in width and 9 or 10 inches below the platform. Bedding should be clean and plentiful.

Long hair on the flanks, udders and tail above the switch of the dairy cow should be removed at regular intervals. Removing this long hair removes the clinging places of dirt which otherwise will fall into the milk pail in quantities. Keeping the hair short on these parts of the cow permits cleaning in much less time and more thoroughly. Brushing should never be neglected. It removes loose particles sticking to the body. When the hair is short, wiping the udders with a damp cloth just before milking, is an easy and important aid in securing clean milk.

It is generally recognized that most of the bacteria found in milk finds its source is dirt clinging to the cow and dropping into the pail during milking time. Simple precautions will practically eliminate this source of bacterial growth and dairymen find themselves well repaid for the little time necessary in taking such precautions.

Removing Vitropane

KEEPING WELL

MOSQUITOES CONVICTED OF MURDER

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN Editor of "HEALTH"

WHEN Laveran, in 1880, discovered the malaria germ in the blood of patients who had "chills and fever" he solved a problem which had puzzled the world for centuries.

But how did this germ get into the patient's blood? Until this was known, there was no way of preventing the disease.

Malaria is generally found in the neighborhood of marshes. Did the germ get into the body through drinking stagnant water?

Experiments showed that persons given marsh water to drink did not get malaria, neither were the malaria germs found in stagnant water.

It had long been believed by the peasants in Italy that mosquitoes were responsible for malaria but there was no evidence to support the idea.

In 1854, Louis David Beauprethuy, a French physician and naturalist, decided that malaria was caused by mosquito bites and that the disease occurred near swamps and marshes, not because the swampy ground gave off poison, but because mosquitoes bred in such places in great quantities.

Charles Finlay of Havana, in 1881, came to the same conclusion. He added the suggestion that the mosquitoes were simply carriers who conveyed the disease from a sick person to a well person.

But all this was theory. There were no facts to prove it. It was not until 1895 that Sir Ronald Ross, an English surgeon in the medical service in India, was ordered to a district in which malaria was very common and began a series of experiments by which he proved that malaria is carried by one kind of mosquito, now known as the anopholes mosquito, and that it is only carried by the female. If a lady anopholes bites a person suffering from malaria and sucks his blood, the germs develop in the body of the mosquito. At the end of 12 days, if the infected mosquito bites a healthy person, the malaria germs pass into the body of the healthy person and cause chills and fever. The same mosquito can infect any number of persons. Infection generally takes place at night, when the mosquito comes from her hiding place in search of food.

Since only mosquitoes can carry malaria, the control of the disease is purely a question of the control of mosquitoes.

Planned "Gateway of Peace" for War Dead

Geneva, Switzerland.—Col. E. N.
House, once personal adviser to President Woodrow Wilson, on making his first visit to the League of Nations he helped to evolve, revealed that he took an option on 1,000 acres along the shore of Lake Lemman, six miles outside of Geneva, when the covenant was being drafted in Paris. The plan was to erect a league palace and a great "gateway of peace" in honor to the war dead, but the idea was abandoned when the United States did not enter the league.

Colonel House told newspaper correspondents that the league was only half a league while the United States, Germany and Russia were outside, and urged American associate membership without covenant obligations.

"Had the United States maintained her word of enthusiasm and joined the league war would have been banished for all time," declared Colonel House.
He added that he had embodied the essentials of the peace protocol—arbitration, security and disarmament—in the first draft of the covenant he wrote in 1918, but President Wilson thought he went too far.
